Listings for long- and short-term housing, furnished and unfurnished taken from the German language website.

Dear Readers

Unfortunately we are unable to set up an online accommodation database in English at this time. This list is intended to be a substitute and will be kept parallel to the German language website “Wohnungsangebote”. The adverts on said site are usually in German, and here we offer you a slightly shortened English translation.

The Welcome Center does not act as a broker for accommodation or rental contracts. You are requested to contact the person stated in the respective advert yourself. Most landlords or sublessors are well able to understand and communicate in English – still, it may be advisable to keep your initial requests simple and easily understandable. Do not expect all landlords to be perfectly familiar with English real estate vocabulary.

Please also bear in mind that there may be customs and practices concerning accommodation in Switzerland that differ from what you are used to – e.g. the expression “shared washing machine”: In most Swiss apartment buildings the various tenants share one laundry room (often in the basement) with washing machine, dryer etc.

Unless stated otherwise, indications of the total number of rooms include all rooms apart from hallway, kitchen and bathrooms. Unlike e.g. in the USA or the United Kingdom, it is not only the number of bedrooms that is specified. Half rooms (.5) usually indicate either a kitchen-cum-living room or an extra storage room.

You can find further information on the website of the Welcome Center, www.welcomecenter.unibe.ch > Accommodation.
