WITH ISEP, YOU CAN

ISEP can take you just about anywhere in the world, at any time, on any budget. With immersive programs in more than 50 countries, where in the world will ISEP take you?

STUDY ABROAD
Experience another culture and earn academic credit for a semester, full academic year or during the summer.

INTERNSHIP ABROAD
Gain invaluable professional experience in a range of career fields and in numerous global cities, including London, Paris, Sydney, Shanghai, New York and Washington, D.C.

VOLUNTEER ABROAD
Extend your experience beyond the classroom and into the local community with service-learning opportunities such as the Global Engagement Program at the University of Ghana in Accra, Africa’s fastest growing city.

YOUR OPTIONS ARE ENDLESS

YOUR LOCATION
From small towns to metropolitan cities, ISEP will help you find the perfect place to call home.

YOUR CLASSES
Take courses in any field of study. Volunteer or add an internship to gain international experience outside of the classroom.

YOUR BUDGET
Choose from our vast list of affordable programs, utilize financial aid and apply for ISEP Scholarships to help with your study abroad.
WE’RE HERE TO HELP

We know you’re independent, but we’re here for you.
Between our Global Office staff and your home and host ISEP coordinators, you will be well-supported throughout your journey.

FINDING A PROGRAM

• Guidance to achieve your study abroad goals
• Help with your ISEP application
• Thorough review of your application to find the best fit
• Help with selecting classes

GETTING READY TO GO ABROAD

• Visa support
• Country-specific handbooks to prepare you for your experience
• Pre-departure and on-site orientation
• Smooth transition between your home and host institutions

WHILE YOU’RE ABROAD

• High-quality health insurance, housing and meal options that meet ISEP standards
• 24-hour emergency support
• Final transcript and credits facilitated for transfer

PLAN YOUR FINANCES

Studying abroad is an investment in your future. Ask us about scholarships that can help make your study abroad experience as affordable as possible.

ISEP SCHOLARSHIPS

ISEP Community Scholarships and ISEP Founders Fellowships encourage applications from students who are underrepresented in study abroad. Annette Kade Scholarships assist students who will study French or German language abroad.

INSTITUTIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS

Some ISEP universities such as Massey University in New Zealand and Kansai Gaidai University in Japan have scholarships specifically for students attending their programs. Ask us how you can qualify.

OUTSIDE SCHOLARSHIPS

Scholarships outside of ISEP and your home and host institutions can provide financial support. Visit our website for resources to find scholarships.
STUDY ABROAD
Study and experience life in the same way as local students. We directly enroll you at our member universities because we value the personal transformation that comes from cultural immersion. ISEP offers two types of study abroad:

ISEP EXCHANGE
Pay your home institution’s tuition and fees and swap spots with a student from any ISEP Exchange member institution. Choose up to 10 schools and we’ll place you at the best option depending on exchange space available and your academic needs.

ISEP DIRECT
Don’t let chances of placement hold you back. Just meet our application requirements and your placement in one of over 60 universities in more than 30 countries will be guaranteed.

INTERNSHIPS
ISEP offers semester and summer internships through our member universities as well as our partnership with Global Experiences, the leading provider of customized internship programs for university students and graduates. Gain valuable real-world experience while you enjoy life in Barcelona, Dublin, Shanghai, New York or one of many other exciting and enriching destinations.

VOLUNTEER ABROAD
Get hands-on volunteer experience on an ISEP semester or summer program. Enroll in service learning courses, volunteer on projects with nonprofits or teach. Participate in ISEP-facilitated community engagement opportunities on the Global Engagement Program at the University of Ghana if you are interested in learning about complex issues in communities around the world.
STUDYING IN THE U.S.

Studying in the U.S. can help perfect your English skills, strengthen your resume and expose you to a range of academic topics. You also get the chance to experience beautiful landscapes and welcoming, friendly people.

PUBLIC VS. PRIVATE: How To Choose Where To Go

Rather than a single national system of higher education, each U.S. state is responsible for the regulation of its institutions of higher learning. The two main types of institutions are public or state universities, and private or independent colleges and universities. These types of institutions can vary considerably.

Public Universities
- Enroll over 10,000 students
- Attract a large number of in-state residents, due to in-state tuition incentives
- Offer a choice of majors in a variety of disciplines
- Larger class sizes, especially for lecture courses
- Diverse student body; strong student community and culture around sports
- More on-campus employment options

Private Colleges & Universities
- Enroll less than 10,000 students
- Attract more out-of-state students; greater geographic diversity
- Offer a smaller range of majors, but often have a particular academic focus
- Smaller class sizes; tend to offer many opportunities for interaction with professors
- Intimate student community; formed through on-campus activities

UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS
- Undergraduates are students in the U.S. in their first four years of university pursuing a bachelor’s of arts or bachelor’s of science degree. Most undergraduate programs are flexible, allowing students to choose a variety of courses and create their own unique program of study.
- In addition to major requirements, students take courses in a variety of disciplines. Professional programs such as medicine, pharmacy, dentistry, veterinary science and law are offered at the graduate level only, although undergraduates take ‘pre-med’ or ‘pre-law’ courses to prepare for further study.

GRADUATE STUDENTS
- Graduate programs are specialized and lead to a master’s degree or a doctoral degree. Admission to graduate study usually requires four years of undergraduate study but may be possible after three years. ISEP graduate students are usually admitted as ‘special’ or ‘non-degree’ students and take undergraduate courses. Qualified students may be able to take graduate courses.

Applying to Graduate Courses
Test scores may be required, such as GMAT for business and GRE for other subjects. TOEFL requirements may be higher. Some classes are open to final-year undergraduates and first-year graduate students. Some sites may allow you to pursue a full graduate degree. Any major that requires direct clinical patient contact (physical therapy, psychological counseling, dentistry, medicine) is closed to non-degree students. Instead, non-degree graduate students are advised to take courses in related fields (health and sciences) not involving direct clinical patient contact.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY

ISEP institutions in the United States require proof of English language proficiency from students who are not native English speakers. For Puerto Rico, students must provide proof of both English and Spanish language proficiency.

Most institutions in the U.S. require an official TOEFL score, but some may accept Institutional TOEFL, IELTS, MELAB, Cambridge certificate or SAT scores.

Some U.S. institutions may accept the ISEP Language Proficiency Report in lieu of TOEFL scores, especially for students from educational systems that require a high level of English proficiency, including: Austria, Belgium, Botswana, Bulgaria, Denmark, Fiji, Finland, Germany, Ghana, Malta, Netherlands, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland or United Arab Emirates.

TOEFL
If the TOEFL is required by the sites on your application, we must receive the official copy of your TOEFL before placement can be finalized.

When do I take the TOEFL?
- To be considered in the ISEP Exchange placement round starting February 15, you should take the TOEFL test by January 1.
- For applications due on September 1, take the test by July 15.

Where do I send my TOEFL results?
- Results must be sent directly to ISEP from ETS.
- If you take the paper or internet-based test, list ISEP’s TOEFL number 9250. For computer-based tests, choose Virginia and ISEP.

Language requirements are in the field of study guide insert and at ISEPStudyAbroad.org.

Which programs offer English as a second language courses?
- ISEP Direct programs in the United States offer full-time ESL courses.
- Some ISEP Exchange programs offer some ESL support courses in addition to regular academic coursework, but are not designed for students who wish to take full-time ESL courses.
As the birthplace of U.S. politics, the northeast region contains some of the oldest states in the nation and is known for the beauty of its changing seasons. Taste fresh maple syrup in Vermont, visit the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, hike the mountains of Maryland and Massachusetts, enjoy the boardwalks of New Jersey and explore the countryside of Connecticut. It’s easy to travel to exciting cities in this region by train or bus, and visit all the places of interest along the way.

FIVE TIPS FOR EUROPE ON A BUDGET

1. Walk places! You’ll save money on transportation and experience more along the journey.

2. Do your research. You can often find ways to get discounts if you look.

3. Take advantage of what your university has to offer. They have so many resources, ranging from services to cultural events and more.

4. Plan ahead. Don’t let a trip that could have been really affordable become expensive just because you didn’t book far enough in advance.

5. Meet the locals. Befriending locals provides huge insight into the culture, and can get you some great tips on how to navigate your city for cheap.
SUMMER PROGRAMS

Summer study abroad programs are a fantastic opportunity to travel, experience another culture and earn academic credit in a short period of time. For students with rigorous academic schedules and limited budgets, summer study abroad programs can be the perfect option. Whether you’re looking for an intensive language course, a unique interdisciplinary cultural program or simply want to choose your own classes for a summer school session, your short-term experience will surely have a lifelong impact.

Enhance your resume and stand out in a competitive job market with an ISEP internship abroad. ISEP internships provide international work and living experience to meet your personal and professional goals. With ISEP, you have the option to supplement your university coursework with an internship outside of the classroom, or intern full-time through our partner Global Experiences in a city brimming with opportunity.

Full-time interns receive guaranteed internship placement, career coaching, housing and on-site support. Explore a wide range of career fields to find the perfect fit. Intern in English or the local language and earn academic credit while you immerse yourself both in the workplace and your host country’s culture. Develop desirable skills to secure your future in an increasingly global workforce.
Volunteer abroad

Extend your experience beyond the classroom and into the local community by volunteering or enrolling in a meaningful service learning program. Connect with locals and immerse yourself into the host cultures in a mutually rewarding educational experience.

ISEP’s Global Engagement Program at the University of Ghana is located in the heart of Ghana’s capital and the fastest growing city in Africa, Accra. As you fly over, Ghana appears to be a bundle of green, bordered by golden beaches, but once you step off the plane you will immediately feel its cultural richness and variety. Enjoy beautiful natural landscapes while making a difference in the local community.

Global Engagement Program
GHANA
University of Ghana, Legon

The ISEP Global Engagement Program offers benefits above and beyond a typical ISEP program including community service, independent studies and research projects, an internship, an on-site resident director, excursions and even a Twi language course. The University of Ghana has a variety of courses, but students studying resource development, agriculture, social sciences or public health will gain a valuable perspective that will set you apart from your peers.
